

PATRICIA MCDONNELL FOR THE BOSTON GLOBE

Markus Wilson (center) of Germany rehearses for "Thoroughly Modern Millie" at the Governor's Academy.

Love of theater paves visit by German teens

By James Sullivan

GLOBE CORRESPONDENT

They like their popcorn with sugar, not salt. When they have a sore throat, they gargle with whiskey. And they're still getting used to these American toilets.

By and large, however, the four German high school students who are staying with local families this summer are just like their American peers. At night and on weekends, they're reading the new Harry Potter book and going to the mall.

On weekdays, they can be found in the theater building at the Governor's Acad-

THEATER, Page 9